FOR BEGINNERS

Mike Hebron (PGA Teacher of the Year 1999): "Learn to ski in summer and golf in the winter!" One thing is clear: Everybody wants to cut a good figure in their active leisure time. When you start practicing in the winter, your skills will improve even before the golfing season has started. Your co-players will be astonished! The driving range creates absolutely realistic training conditions. Among many other things, you receive all the data about trajectory, club face speed, and length. On a regular driving range, you don't have access to this kind of information. You are better prepared for the golf season and can enjoy an early start on the golf course after having learnt the basics in the simulators in a magnificent golfing atmosphere!
